

Self-directed support quiz

Please tick true or false to the following statements

True

False

Self-directed Support is only for people with physical or learning disabilities

Self-directed Support is just the same as Direct Payments

Having greater choice and control improves well-being

Individuals will get their budget through a self-assessment

A self-directed support specialist will need to carry out an SDS assessment

Self-directed Support is all about budgets and access to the 4 options

Self-directed Support will have an impact on existing services and providers

Once people get their budget they will be left to get on with it

Self-directed support will mean increased risk to people's health and well-being

Once an individual budget is agreed the money can be spent on anything

People can use their money to employ family members to provide care and support

It's the practitioners responsibility to make sure the plan works

The Self-directed Support values & principles are similar to core values in health and social work

Only those who work in social care need to know about Self-directed support

Self-directed Support can't be used with people with dementia or mental health difficulties

Self-directed Support is about budget cuts