

National Inter-agency Referral Discussion (IRD) Learning and Development team

Project Officer x2

Recruitment Pack

Dear Candidate,

Thank you for your interest in this post.

Social Work Scotland is the professional body for social work managers and leaders. We are a membership organisation with over 350 individual and corporate members. We exist to promote and support the development of the social work profession, and to inform, influence and improve public policy and public services.

We have an exciting opportunity for 2 qualified and registered social workers with experience of children and families social work to join a multi-agency team with a remit to deliver the National Inter-agency Referral Discussion (IRD) Learning and Development Programme. All applicants should have knowledge and experience of child protection and GIRFEC, and relevant legislation, policy and practice in Scotland.

Inter-agency Referral Discussion (IRD) practice is identified as a cornerstone of the child protection system. This process is central to ensuring risk to a child or young person is identified, mitigated and appropriate support is put in place.

Working collaboratively as part of a team from social work, police and health, these posts will deliver a national learning and development programme for IRDs to build specialist knowledge and skills, to enhance the protection of children. Delivery of the programme will be in local area across the country to support consistency of practice based on the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland 2021 - updated 2023.

Under a collaborative leadership and management model from Police Scotland, Social Work Scotland and NHS Education for Scotland, the team will work together to deliver the agreed objectives.

The work of the National Team contributes directly to policy and practice developments in the wider children's services landscape, including, but not limited to, GIRFEC, The Promise, UNCRC, Bairns' Hoose, Scottish Child Interview Model (SCIM), Age of Criminal Responsibility and implementation of the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland.

The successful candidate will deliver the training programme to police, social work and health IRD participants, support the programme of ongoing practice evaluation and contribute to ongoing development of the programme.

The work will require travel across Scotland to deliver training in local areas.

The successful candidate should be an experienced social work professional, committed to working on a multi-agency basis, applying trauma informed practice and focused on the rights and needs of children and families and with experience or evidence of capacity in relation to training.

To apply for this post, please submit a completed application form.

2. ABOUT SOCIAL WORK SCOTLAND

Who are we and what do we do?

Upholding the values which underpin the social work profession, Social Work Scotland give importance to every individual's experience and voice and seek to make social justice real through all that we do. We embrace change and encourage collaboration. We are committed to creating opportunities for our members and team through which individuals can develop as compassionate, creative and effective leaders.

We particularly encourage applications from care experienced, disabled and Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic candidates, as these groups are underrepresented throughout the social work profession.

Our core objectives (as set out in Social Work Scotland's Articles of Association)

- a) Pursue social justice, human rights and equality for all of Scotland's citizens
- b) Promote the unique role, value and contribution of social work
- c) Articulate the expertise and insight of social work managers
- d) Inform the development and implementation of policy, at national and local levels
- e) Support high-quality and effective leadership within social work and social care
- f) Champion research and evidence as the basis of policy and practice
- g) Facilitate collaboration and practice improvement among social work and social care providers
- h) Shape the direction and development of social work in Scotland

To help deliver these objectives we facilitate a large number of committees and sub-groups, populated by our members. Among these is the Chief Social Work Officers network. Governance is provided primarily by the Social Work Scotland Board, which is made up of company and non-executive directors; it is chaired by Social Work Scotland's Convenor.

Our Team

We have a core team consisting of 15 staff and host a number of other staff who are with us for a fixed time, working on a specific project (usually in partnership with Scottish Government or other national partners). At the moment we have nine staff in these posts. The National IRD Project will be an additional new Project.

Background to the National IRD Project

These posts will play a key role within the context of a multi-agency team to support full implementation of the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland in relation to IRD practice.

Commissioned by Scottish Government, this project is the next stage of national delivery following a national survey in January 2023 and two 3-day pilot courses. Following positive evaluation of the pilot, there was support for a national roll out within a geographical focus to support existing partnership working.

The programme will support national improvement and consistency in line with:

- Getting it right for every child \(GIRFEC\) principles and values
- National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland 2021 - updated 2023
- National Trauma Transformation Programme \(NTTP\)
- National Joint Investigative Interviews of Child Victims and Witnesses Project
- Bairns' Hoose implementation and development
- Age of Criminal Responsibility \(Scotland\) Act 2019
- The Promise Scotland
- United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child \(Incorporation\) \(Scotland\) Act 2024

The key objectives of the Project are to enhance the standard and consistency of child protection practice around IRDs. This includes the delivery of a 3-day national learning and development programme for IRDs with a focus on child protection, age of criminal responsibility and care and risk management (CARM) in local areas to priority groups from the 3 core agencies of health, social work and police.

The team will have close connections with the National Joint Investigative Interviews (JII) Team. This will allow the programme to develop using the learning and experience of the implementation of the Scottish Child Interview Model (SCIM).

3. JOB DESCRIPTION

The right candidate for this post will hold significant experience in protecting children practice and leadership, be self-motivated and dynamic, and able to engage with a range of multi-disciplinary partners. You will have a strong desire to support the continued development and excellence we are aiming to achieve through this programme of improvement for IRD.

The posts will be line managed by and report to the Protecting Children Policy and Practice Adviser and will work closely across the multi-agency partnership.

Your key responsibilities will be:

1. Delivery of a 3-day national learning and development programme for IRDs.
2. Fostering and maintaining collaborative working relationships with colleagues from Police Scotland, NHS Education for Scotland and other key partners locally and nationally.
3. Work closely with partners in local areas and Child Protection Committees to scope the most effective way to ensure the programme is planned, delivered and accessible for those who require it, in line with local priorities and improvement activity.
4. Implement a sustainable and accessible method of course evaluation which supports continuous improvement.
5. Drawing on research, practice and policy development, contribute to the ongoing development of IRD practice locally while mainlining consistency and alignment with the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland 2021 - updated 2023
6. In line with recommendations from the revision of the National Guidance, support participants to consider their improvement journey in relation to data gathering and quality assurance of IRDs.
7. Along with partners, explore the requirements for accreditation and consider future potential for credit rating as the education provision progresses.
8. Confidently deliver the training programme and support learning through group working, both independently and as part of a team.
9. Provide high quality reports on programme deliverables and progress as part of reporting arrangements.

10. Represent Social Work Scotland and the National IRD Project as appropriate at various local and national fora as required.
11. Ensure alignment with relevant policy and legislative developments to ensure the programme remains evidence-based and contemporary.
12. Engage in continuous professional development and remain current in understanding of relevant theory and practice improvements.
